I purchased the SS model with basic trim package. It has fabric upholstery, power windows and locks, etc. All it is really missing option wise is leather (which I am not a fan of). Overall, I am extremely satisfied with the car. It is beautiful, handles well and is very fast. I have done some engine and exhaust upgrades for performance, but even before the car was great. The interior has bucket seats in front and a bench/bucket in back. The back seats are small and there is very little leg room. An average adult can definitely not sit comfortably in the back. However, it is a sports car, and backseat comfort is not expected. There are cup holders in front and a small console. Inside the console is a USB adapter for charging phones, etc. Trunk space is generous, and accessible by flipping the back seats down. I purchased my Camaro with the touch screen stereo. It is Bluetooth compatible, which is nice for both MP3 playback and hands-free calling. This car handles like an absolute dream. The suspension is very tight, making for a sometimes bumpy ride, but enabling good control of the car. Engine response and speed pickup are great. This car will jump when you want it to. I chose a manual transmission, and it is really fun to drive. I'm not sure of the automatic model's response, but I have to say the manual is great. All in all, this car is beautiful, fun to drive, and a definite head turner. If you are looking for a sports car, I highly recommend the Camaro. I live in the South, where people like their sports cars. I have vanity plates, and the car is beautiful, so I am always getting stopped and told how much people love my car.
